Pregnant woman stabbed 24 times, shot once, lives

By Maricar Cioso
Inquirer Northern Luzon

STA. CRUZ, Laguna—She survived seven hours in a police dark pit, enduring 24 stab wounds in the chest and back and a bullet wound in the right leg.

Now confined at the Laguna provincial hospital, pointing under an oxygen mask, police informant Grace Capatagan could only nod when asked if she and her baby were okay. She is four months pregnant.

She could not speak, but was able to nod over to show her wounds.

SC, Webbs dare Vizconde to name names

By Marlon Ramon

NAME NAMES

The Supreme Court and the family of convicted rapist and murderer Laure Vizconde, who had claimed that a number of the tribunal was looking for the acquittal of the men convicted of killing his wife and two daughters in 1991.

"We're evaluating what he said because most of them were not true. It's offending, you know," Webb's father, Freddie Webb, said in an interview with defunct Radio Inquirer.

The former senator said Vizconde should identify the justice who was purportedly behind an attempt to clear his son and the other convicts, as well as the other justice who supposedly told the widower of such news.

"He should name whatever those justices are. He's planning to lie because he should not be giving any information," Freddie Webb said.

Vizconde did not name names during his interview with the justices on Thursday, which was reported yesterday. But last night over GMA 7, he said Senator Francisco Aranao Capatagan "leading ways to continue his colleagues" to clear Webb's son. "Disagreement by justices says,"

Convict jailed 9 years for burning evidence

By Hilo Morales and Marlon Ramon

THE EX-POLICEMAN convicted of tampering with evidence concerning the infamous "Vizconde massacre" is now a free man after serving almost a decade behind bars as part of his sentence.

Gerardo Biong spent at least nine years in the New Bilibid Prison. He and his wife Jocelyn were still awaiting his formal release from the maximum-security compound of the national penitentiary at press time last night.

Her eyes glistening, Jocelyn Biong said they were waiting for the transcendental of her husband's release order.

Biong's lawyer, Jose Flaminiano, confirmed Biong's release to the Inquirer in a phone interview, saying Justice Secretary Leila de Lima signed the release order yesterday morning.

Flaminiano quickly said Biong's release had nothing to do with the supposed lobbying for his high court's acquittal of the convicts.

"This is a result of the operation of the law," Flaminiano said.

Flaminiano said Biong was to proceed to his house to spend the night and possibly stop on a piece to eat back into society.

"Yes, there are some [Biong] had served [his] sentence already," De Lima told the Inquirer in a text message.

Biong's release came a day after Laure Vizconde, whose wife and two daughters were found stabbed to death in the family house in 1991, cleared

FROM COP TO CONVICT Gerardo Biong at the 1991 headquarters after his arrest in 1995. He will be freed on Thursday, says his lawyer.

NINOY'S 78TH BIRTHDAY

'I'm sure, somewhere out there, he's helping out Noy,' says Ballsy

By DJ Yap

While he aimed to celebrate his 78th birthday today, family ex-"Nino" Aquino Jr. would have been busting about, looking over the shoulder of his son, the President, as he ran the affairs of the country according to eldest child Mr. Marcos "Ballsy" Aquino-Cruz.

Ballsy could very well imagine his father as an omnipotent older man, always talking to people and giving advice, re-

TELLING THE FILIPINO STORY TO THE WORLD

Editors: Here, for 25 days, we will be telling stories about the Inquirer to mark the paper's 25th anniversary on Dec. 4, 2010. Some are little inside stories that you may not have seen unfolding events, some are week-day stories that become full-of-the-week stories, others are turning-point stories that have changed the landscape of history; still others, big or small, show the future and never let go. But whenever the Inquirer will tell you the story.

TO LAND on the front page of the Philippine Daily Inquirer during those heady days of 1986, a story had to be about politics, conspiracy theories or corruption.

Not a sports story, much more a piece about college basketball, it would be close to impossible.

Our sports event though so moved them, PDI editor in chief Louie Beland said it not only gained front-page prominence but was also the topic of the day's editorial, as well as Sen. Benigno Aquino's editorial cartoon.

North Korea warns of 'brink of war'

SEOUL, South Korea—North Korea said yesterday that impending military exercises by the South and the United States were pushing the region to the brink of war, days after it launched its heaviest bombardment since the 1990-93 Korean War.

South Korean officials said down on the small South Korean island of Yeosu on Tuesday, killing four people and destroying dozens of houses. The North said it was responding to live fire from the South into its waters.

"The situation on the Korean peninsula is inching closer to the brink of war due to the reckless

Optimizing Surgical Outcomes

December 5-8, 2010 EDSA Shangri-La Hotel, Mandaluyong City

The Philippine College of Surgeons is the umbrella organization of all surgical specialties in the country. It is committed to continually improve the practice of surgery by serving as an advocate for surgeons who seek excellence in surgical care. On December 5-8, 2010, the PCS is holding its 66th Annual Clinical Congress at the EDSA Shangri-La Hotel in Mandaluyong City, with the theme "Optimizing Surgical Outcomes".

The scientific program aims to achieve best practice initiative that promotes the coexistence of quality care, patient safety and access to world class procedures. It focuses on current standards and strategies for the best treatment options available, reinforces holistic care in the management of surgical patients through a multidisciplinary team approach, and ultimately, hopes to deliver the best surgical care in the management of current surgical diseases.

Renowned speakers here and abroad have confirmed their participation in this conference. Topics cover a wide range including Trauma, Fluid Resuscitation, Surgical Infection, Breast Cancer, Esophageal Cancer, Colorectal Cancer, Anorectal Conditions, Laparoscopic Surgery and other subspecialty topics.

Fellowship night is on Sunday, December 5, 2010. A festive atmosphere is expected, it being a time of enjoying camaraderie among the Fellows and resident trainees, renewing professional and personal friendships and acquaintances from all over the country.

99th Birthday and 53rd Anniversary of

DR. FE DEL MUNDO MEDICAL CENTER

DOCTOR, MOTHER & CHILD

"I am glad I have been very much involved in the care of children. They are the most outstanding feature in my life."

NATIONAL SCIENTIST AWARD 1960

"It is a very rewarding and an inspiring to the building of a world of happy and healthy children."

BLESSED MOTHER, TERESA OF CALCUTTA APRIL 2008

"I am happy that I have found a true tangible expression of gratitude in the Almighty."

"As mankind owes to children the best it has to give, this Center is a modest legacy to the Children of our Land."

"Dr. Fe Del Mundo: A Beautiful Life"

Coffee Table Book by Marsha Ledesma
Preface by Atina Del Mundo Bengzon

What is the essence of "DR. FE DEL MUNDO'S BEAUTIFUL LIFE"? The answer lies in another question, "Why only love with your heart when you can pour your whole soul into it?"

At 99, Dr. Fe del Mundo has received more than 250 citations and awards as "Grand Dame of Philippine Pediatrics and Medicine, National Scientist, Author, Educator, Public Servant, Humanitarian, & Woman of Many Faces". This monument of extraordinary achievements were built on a foundation of faith, hope, and love in the care of her being, her soul, the dwelling place of the Divine Healer.

Thus, when the Medical Observer selected her as "Doctor of Distinction", they said:

"It is not for the functions of the mind and the hand that we honor you. We honor you for what is inside you that we see in all that you have done - because you firmly believe that more than a keen eye, a sharp mind, and a skillful hand, a physician needs a compassionate heart."

C. W. Nields, Fleet Admiral of the U.S. Navy during World War II, wrote about the Children's Memorial Hospital (now the Dr. Fe del Mundo Medical Center):

"Dr. Fe del Mundo has poured all her great soul into an undertaking to better with difficulty no emergence from a vision into reality seemed impossible. She has set her faith against hardship after hardship and overcome them all for the sake of her beloved children."

In 2008, Dr. Fe del Mundo received this citation as the Blessed Mother Teresa of Calcutta-Awardee:

"...for her great personal sacrifice to improve the lives of Filipino children and their families... especially the poor and the disadvantaged... we can truly say that she embodies the true spirit and mission of Blessed Teresa of Calcutta."

The Introduction by Florio Castillo to Marsha Ledesma's book "Living from the Heart" is an endearing tribute of a mother to Doctors Fe:

"Dr. Fe del Mundo stood next to God in my mind whenever she touched my life and in the awesome silence of her examining room. Your article brought back memories of long ago when with a sick child, I would see her pass by our hospital room on her way to church in the early morning and how just that sign of her set my heart at rest."

Why only love with your heart when you can pour your whole soul into it? The answer is in the "Heart of Gold" Award by Marsha Ledesma who describes the essence of "Dr. Fe del Mundo: A Beautiful Life".

"Having tirelessly dedicated her life to improving health care for children and underserved families in her country, having selflessly engaged in humanitarian service for over eight decades, having quietly acted as an inspiration to thousands of medical service professionals whose minds she has shaped, having been permanently enshrined in the hearts and affections of the countless patients she has cared for and cured, and possessing a deep humility in believing herself unworthy of accolades, Dr. Fe del Mundo - whose name means 'Faith of the World' - undoubtedly ranks among the greatest souls to have ever walked this earth."

Noynoy makes whirlwind visit to Baguio for a Jollibee burger

By Vincent Calma
Inquirer Northern Team

BAGUIO CITY—The city government closed stretches of Horacio E. Alcala and converted a government bank to support road widening to President Aquino could spend an entire day in the fast-food chain Jollibee and eat a slice of a giant hamburger that was prepared for his visit.

Mr. Aquino's official schedule in the city was limited to under three hours, as he declined an invitation with Cordillera and Baguio officials, seeking an opportunity to witness rescue, including the restoration of roads damaged by typhoons in 2009.

Since 9 a.m., residents of a local Cordillera school had been told about behind a barrier on Harrison Road for a glimpse of Mr. Aquino, who arrived by helicopter from La Union.

Bank closed

The National Trust branch of the Land Bank of the Philippines had to be closed as Friday morning because of the crowd that built up near the fast-food branch.

After 9 a.m., Jollibee staff and President Aquino's security detail moved to the bank. Mr. Aquino was the first president to visit a Jollibee outlet, the corporation's 10th anniversary on Harrison Road for a glimpse of Mr. Aquino, who arrived by helicopter from La Union.

Appointment of climate change commission's vice chair hailed

PURITO PRINCE (D) Mayor Isidro Hapilon, Jr. welcomed what he called "a decisive rapid action" by President Aquino to make the finalizing leadership crisis in the Climate Change Commission, with the appointment of Lucille Seling as the commission's vice chair.

"This is a major step in the right direction. We have great confidence in the ability of Commissioner Lucille Seling to lead the commission's response to the climate crisis. The President made the right choice and I want to assure him of the support of Purito Princess in pursuit of the country's plans to confront the imminent climate change," said Hapilon, an environmentalist.

Bleak Yule for condo tenants

By Yeo K. Santos

THEY won't be litane for Christ-MAS.

Residents of First Tower condominium in Cebu's largest city are not likely to get their wish of spending Christmas in their homes.

"We are back to back," said Robert Joseph Torres, 35, adding that the cleanup of the area affected by the fire will take time to be completed. First Philippine Industrial Corp. (FPIC) is the owner of the building, and it is likely to be completed by the end of the year, he said.

Long wait

"I was told by the residents that it will take months, maybe even years, before the total cleanup process is over. What we are doing now is to make conditions a lot better for the affected community," he said.

Tenants evacuated

The city government said the building was in a bad state and ordered the evacuation of the tenants. The city government said it had no choice but to order the evacuation of the building, prompting the residents to demand the city government to "fix the building."

About 100 to 150 families and a number of businesses with offices in the condominium were affected by the fire.

Some of the tenant owners were expected to be back home by Christmas.

Not safe

"We would really like them to be home by Christmas, but it's still not safe for them to go in," Torres said.

Meanwhile, a fire tower on the site is still under construction. The tower is still under construction and it is not clear when it will be completed.

Fireworks ban

Meanwhile, Torres said he was still waiting for the city government to approve a permit for fireworks during the holidays and use of fireworks during the holidays to ensure the safety of the area.

"We are just trying to keep the building and the area safe during the holidays," he said.

The fire department said it is still working on the site and it is not clear when it will be completed.

Torres said that the situation in the building had become a crisis for them since they are still waiting for the city government to approve a permit for fireworks during the holidays.

Signs of life

Experts noted that the fire department is still working on the site and it is not clear when it will be completed.

Questions grow over deadly Cambodia stampede

By Sarah Medeiros

FROM FROM—Cantonese—When this two days after funerals of people died in a huge, tightly packed crowd on the last night of a water festival, both the crowd and the dead will remain motionless on Thursday.

Most of the victims were caught in a crush on a small bridge. Rather than being trampled on, the victims suffocated as they were crushed to death by a dense, inescapable crowd in which some people were trapped by beams.

the course of the death roll, which may not include victims who dropped or were killed during the storm.

On Wednesday, the government said that at least 350 people had died and that 400 had been injured. But among other cities in Thailand, a newspaper, The Phibun Press Post, citing government sources, said the death toll had climbed to 126.

In grief and shock turned to demands for retribution, the opposition continued to grow. In the course of the week, more than 100,000 people took to the streets in the capital and over the city's outskirts to help

A preliminary government consultation involved 4

This confirmation is a report by a military police investigator, Lieutenant Christensen, who said on the morning after the disaster that survivors told him there had been shouts that the bridge was collapsing.

There were also questions about whether some people had been discriminated, possibly by of the bridge. Engineers on that hot day began immediately on the disaster, with some saying the police had water tested the ground that night but not allowed to live on it.

Doctors at the city's main hospital, Calumet, did not rule out the possibility that the victims were not signs of tuberculosis among others who injured or died. But they said most of the injured had suffered from a squeezing of the packed crowd, some patterns at the hospital said they had been unable breathe and had passed out.

...that a failure of control is apparent and for an independent investigation to be conducted. One officer could be held officially responsible if police officers are not properly deployed. Seriously injured members reported being changed into vehicles together with the dead.

The government did not mobilize help for relief, writes many of whom were from distant provinces to the dead. Bodies were seen as a materialist concept, confirms scientists. Mir-

The Adkins House Rights Commission, based in Hong Kong, used a report that skated over the questions and criticisms.

"While the exact cause is still under investigation, it appears to be a combination of factors," says a spokesman for the U.S. Coast Guard. "The vessel was carrying a large amount of cargo, and the weather was rough. It is possible that the vessel was overloaded or that the cargo was not properly secured. The investigation is ongoing, and we will release more information as it becomes available."

Jerusalem wall feu heightens tensions

REVENOM.—The prime minister of Israel, Benjamin Netanyahu, on Thursday strongly denounced a Palestinian Arab weekly paper that denies any Jewish connection to the West. At Tel Aviv, the Israeli holy site and place of Jewish worship in the Old City of Jerusalem, describing the report as "repulsive and unbecoming."

The episode appeared to signal a worsening atmosphere after a two-month hiatus in press talks.

Muhammad's statement, embedded in a long article that appeared in Ain on Monday on the Information Ministry website of the Shari'ah-backed Taliban government, led by President Rahimuddin Mohi and Prime Minister Sahab Shajad in the West Bank, its publication was previously reported by The Jerusalem Post.

Jerusalem and its holy sites are one of the most intractable and emotional issues of the Israeli-Arab conflict, long considered the eastern part of Jerusalem, including the Old City, East Jerusalem in the 1967 war, and insisted it is a issue that non-core international community recognized. Since 200,000 Jews live in areas of the Jerusalem that have been developed since 1967, among about a quarter-million Palestinians. The Palestinians claim the Jerusalem as the capital of a future Palestinian state.

The Winners Wall is a remnant of the remaining wall of a platform erected by Jews in the Temple Mount, the site where their ancient temples once stood. The platform is also the third holiest site in Islam. Known in Arabic as the Haram al-Sharif, or Noble Sanctuary, the compound includes the Akasha, Al Aqsa Mosque and the golden Dome of the Rock.

In Muslim tradition, the well is the place where the Prophet Muhammad suffered his winged descent. During, during his miraculous overnight journey from Mecca to Jerusalem in the seventh century.

any Jewish historical connection with the site was written by H. Matveevskii Tala, an Information Ministry official. In it, he stated that "the Al Buraq Wall is the western wall of Al Aqsa, which the Islamic congregation habitually chooses to worship at and calls the 'Western Wall' (East)." NYT

WOMEN, who worked as flight attendants for the airline, are suing the company, claiming that the company's policy of requiring flight attendants to be of a certain weight is discriminatory. The suit was filed in federal court in New York City on Nov. 28.

Dinosaur die-off cleared way for mammals to explode in size

WASHINGTON—They just needed some leg room. New research shows the great dinosaur die-off made way for mammals to explode in size...some more massive than several dinosaurs put together.

The largest land mammal over 600 million years ago, Indricotherium (see cover), stood the height of a 5.5-meter-tall, weighed nearly 17 tons and grazed in forests in what is now France. It makes the horse known mostly as a mascot a lot puny.

Tracking such prehistoric giants is more than a hobby. It sheds new light on the evolution of mammals as they diversified in 65 million years following the dinosaur die-off.

Within 25 million years of the dinosaurs' extinction, life, in general terms—overall land mammals had reached a maximum size and then leveled off, an international team of scientists reports on Friday in the journal Science.

And while different species at different times reached their peaks at different points in time, that pattern of prehistoric size was remarkably similar across the globe.

"Evolution can happen very quickly when ecology permits," said paleontologist Philip Smith of the University of New Mexico, who led the research. "That is really coming down ecology allowing this to happen."

Scientists who long ago noted that life became less diverse after the end of the dinosaurs 65 million years ago offered in the 1990s evidence, and that some of those new giants that the new study is the first comprehensive mapping of those giants in a way that helps explain how and why they thrived.

Life didn't have a clear idea of how big they went after the extinction of the dinosaurs," explained Dick Pyenson, a scientist at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History, who wasn't involved with the new research.

Previous theories suggested that species diversity drove increases in size, but the new study didn't find the connection.

"It suggests there's a deeper explanation of how land body size evolved in mammals," he said.

Mammals did evolve with dinosaurs, but small ones, ranging from about the size of a mouse to a maximum of a small dog.

"We were pretty much the mammals occupying around the first of the dinosaurs," he says. Now mammals' family pack.

'Honeymoon killer' back in US

LOS ANGELES—An American who scored prison time in Australia for his wife's drowning death during their honeymoon returned on Thursday to the US, where he faces murder charges that could carry a life-in-prison punishment.

Scott Peters, 31, arrested in Los Angeles on Thursday morning after he was dropped on a commercial flight from Melbourne, Australia, last August, is charged with murdering his wife, 26-year-old Stephanie Peters, who disappeared on a flight to Honolulu. She was 26 weeks pregnant at the time. Peters' criminal defense attorneys said he and his wife were out to Honolulu.

Subsequent to his arrest, said Los Angeles police Lt. Anton McCleary, Peters said his wife made a court appearance in Los Angeles before being sent back to Australia.

Australian hopes to arrange to bring Peters back to the state early and work, said Sgt. Ken Wright. Wright said Australian authorities viewed too much history in Peters, who served as US marine reserve in that country after spending plenty of time in Honolulu. When Peters, 26, drowned in 2003 while scuba diving with her husband of 11 days.

Firms' credit access improving, says BSP

By Maribel V. Ramos

LOCAL BUSINESSES found it easier to tap bank loans to offset repatriation and use in expanding development that could help sustain a "sustainable" growth rate for the economy.

According to a survey conducted by the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas, the so-called "credit access index" for the fourth quarter fell 10.4 percent, up substantially from only 70.1 percent in the corresponding last year.

The latest index, however, is a slightly lower than the +15.1 percent registered in the third quarter.

The credit access index measures the percentage of enterprises receiving the necessary credit line to fund their operations. It is based on the percentage of enterprises responding that need their found it easier to access bank loans to fund their operations.

Bank loans easier to tap in Q3

The latest quarterly survey conducted between Oct. 1 to Nov. 9 covered 2,028 firms and had a 75.4 percent response rate. The surveyed firms were of different sizes and represented various business sectors.

The central bank said the improvement in accessibility of credit is consistent with the growth in bank loans.

Latest data from the BSP showed that outstanding loans from commercial banks amounted to P1.17 trillion as of end September this year, registering a 9.5-percent expansion from P1.09 trillion as of the same period last year.

From the bank officials said that sustained growth in bank lending, even as the target of the global financial crisis, was one of the factors that helped ease financing access a more, vice.

The Philippine economy grew by 3.1 percent last year, significantly slower than the 3.3 percent in 2008 and the 7.5 percent in 2007.

Nonetheless, the Philippines was one of the few countries whose economic data did not contract.

BSP officials said low interest rates aided the increase in demand for and supply of loans.

Banking industry data show that deposits of banks in the special deposit facility of the BSP had already reached the P10-million mark, with a national high.

The BSP agreed that banks should lend more, encouraging them to more readily requirements especially for small and medium enterprises.

On top of this, the central bank has also asked banks to encourage loans to fund more to smaller corporate businesses.

Although access to credit is improving, many SMEs still find it difficult to meet bank requirements, having many of them to borrow from informal sources.

Other borrowers, on the other hand, complain that banks often charge loans rates that are higher than average.

Bread demand stable amid price hike

By Maribel V. Ramos

BAKERS ARE not afraid of losing demand despite their recent implementation of a P1-per-kilo price hike and a 34-cent-per-kilo increase for every 10-kilo pack of pure at, as, including is expected to fuel sales of local bread products.

Stanley Ullrich Jr., president of Goodman Baking Philippines, Inc., said demand remained strong despite the two price hikes, but he said he had to pick up just where bakers implemented a price increase.

"During the second half of the month, we saw improved consumption and demand for bread. I think that in the first half of the month, people were holding back on their purchases because of the rising Christmas season. But consumers have since started buying again," he said.

He related that during the holiday season, big and small bakeries alike produced at full capacity and most of the time even resorted to send merchandise boxes.

This was also evident from the appreciation of bread market share despite the recent price hike, he said, January, however, is another story altogether.

"We don't know any effect on demand now, but our worry is for January. Consumers may still look to buy, so we really have to find a way to keep price increases," he said.

Bakers last week packed up orders of bread issued by P1 and per kilo sold by 30 cent per 10-kilo pack, following a significant increase in the price of flour.

In an earlier interview, Ullrich said that prices were up by 700 per 25-kilogram bag last October, but bakers only increased their prices last week. Since then, flour prices had risen by another P20 a bag.

Another P1-per-kilo price hike would have to be implemented by mid-December, he said, if the Department of Trade and Industry would not be able to find a source of cheaper rice-hedge for bakers.

Poultry import control planned

By Rex T. Odoardo

THE DEPARTMENT OF Agriculture is conducting consultations with livestock stakeholders in response to a resolution in the House of Representatives requiring the suspension of imports of poultry and poultry products.

The suspension order is aimed to prevent a disease that is the local avian, according to Secretary Genaro Alguacil told reporters.

Resolution 361 filed by lawmakers in the House of Representatives during the department is "intentionally stop the importation of chicken and poultry meat by quarter," Alguacil said.

The resolution also orders the department to conduct poultry stakeholders consultation.

Agriculture Secretary Genaro Alguacil said he would make a tougher stance on chicken imports, which he is a pending down prices of locally produced chicken, which has resulted in losses for domestic producers.

Alguacil said that government agencies will ensure import permits, as well as ensure a fair market allocation.

He further indicated that he was only after consultations with industry stakeholders, he said.

He noted that the Department of Agriculture will stop if the resolution is chicken imports, whose activities will down prices when they find the market in imports.

In August, Bion said a chicken supply shortage was a major problem. "Domestic" stocks were insufficient to meet demand.

In response, the government has taken various measures including government stock and selling broiler eggs to the public.

However, the country has not resulted in a higher price for chicken.

Gov't asked to put an end to protectionism

By Alexander, 144

WITH THE world becoming increasingly flat, the government should not swing from protectionist policies and instead find ways to make local industries globally competitive.

John Napp, executive representative of World Bank Group, wrote a letter, entitled "Foreign Corrupt Practices Act," to the company's board of directors, warning of its negative impact during that institution's upcoming meeting.

"We really need to open up. If the joints are open, then we're all taking advantage of it," he said in a recent forum. "So as a country have good protectionist policies for the time long. Sun and wind power this house

By Tracy S. Selzer

HOW DO you lessen your carbon footprint within the confines of your home, especially if that house is loaded with eight air-conditioning units, a couple of flat-screen TVs, a microwave oven, washing machine, electric stove, refrigerator and a host of other appliances?

Look no farther than your power source: the sun and the wind. These are free, if you know how to harness them. In suburban Fericandia, Rep. Francisco "Kuya" Fericandia, and now he's reaping the benefits.

Three years ago, Fericandia installed the solar panels that could generate an equivalent of 1,200 watts and a small turbine (1000 watt) on the roof of his 150-sq-meter property in Fericandia, in Marikina, specifically giving him an extra 2,000 watts of free electricity. These power sources are connected to 12 batteries in more than 100 square meters could use the extra power any time of the day or night, when needed.

With the wind turbine, Fericandia could even produce and store electricity at night, and even during stormy weather when the wind is strong.

Big drop in electric bill

The installation cost him P100,000 (for the solar panels, turbine and grid tie up system), while the wind turbine cost roughly P200,000. Fericandia's system is set up in such a way that he could still use his conventional source of electricity from Meralco.

At a month of the three-week survey of power, Fericandia was able to bring his monthly electricity bill down to an average of P8,000, a significant drop from his previous average bill of P18,000. At this rate, Fericandia estimates that he will recoup his installation expenses on the solar and wind power setup in 9 years. To increase power savings, Fericandia has installed lights using appliances during Mexico's peak hours—from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

When Fericandia does receive his expenses at the 9th year, he can expect years and even more of effective life from his solar panels. The effective life of a solar panel ranges from 25 to 30 years. A 300-watt solar panel in 2010 year would cost about 10 pesos, and in 2020 year, the panel can only generate up to around 170 watts.

Teach 'em

Fericandia has expanded this know-how to his business, and he now teaches Solar and Wind Energy Power Inc. (http://www.solarwindenergy.com/). He has helped provide panels for various institutions and even solar panels for vehicles.

Fericandia wants his clients not only to save money on power, but also to feel the "empowering" the feeling of being off-grid truly can be.

The technology is increasing. When you're using renewable energy, it's truly a good, he said.

To minimize his use of fossil fuels (gasoline and diesel), Fericandia has set up his own full electric vehicles (a car, two motorcycles and a bicycle), which he charges every morning before the peak Meralco hours, and takes them to take his son to school or to go to the office.

Three wind solar panels and a wind turbine installed, Fericandia will enjoy the benefits the greatest use of appliances in his house.

The household does the laundry (washing machine and flat iron) from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. only. The washing machine's three pumps are turned on from 7 to 8 a.m. The air conditioning stays off until 7 p.m. "Following the time of use teaches you to be disciplined," Fericandia explained.

He is now saving his lights on the roof, saving potential of the sun. He has also devised a way to reduce temperature for washing and washing plastic, and a way to the process of "line drying" the laundry.

He just can't get enough of a good thing.

ROCKING REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT AT NUMBER ONE ROCKWELL

For those who are considering investing in real estate, Number One Rockwell offers the ideal wrap – higher rental yields, a hands-on leasing office and accredited designers and contractors to help create a desirable unit for lease.

In a study done by a third party property consultant, Rockwell investors have been getting rental yields higher than any residential condominium in Manila.

The Rockwell Lifestyle's Appeal to the Market

"We feel that the distinct lifestyle that Rockwell Center offers allows Rockwell unit owners to demand a higher rental rate compared to other developments. Tenants are drawn to Rockwell Center's self-contained, lifestyle living concept, and we attract all types of people because of the diversity of the unit types available."

Number One Rockwell units offer minimalist space and ingenious design.

The age group ranges from 25 to 58 and up, and we have executives, businesswomen, students, retirees and starting Pinoy families," said Angela Pagulayan, Senior Leasing Manager at Rockwell.

To date, units in the secondary market are still very much in demand, and capital values are expected to increase as the master plan of Rockwell Center is completed," Pagulayan added.

The 2-Loft at Number One Rockwell

An example of unit type innovation is the 2-loft from Number One Rockwell. It is the country's first 2-shaped unit, an innovation by local architect Placido, Rodriguez, Sindona & Partners, which provides breathtaking views from both sides of the building.

The 2-Loft is the newly completed Number One Rockwell.

These units are nestled in the uniquely designed East and West Towers – structures that are both striking and elegant. From the landscaped plaza that welcomes residents at the entrance to the spectacular Sky Deck, which has stunning sunset views and lush rooftop amenities.

The Convenience of Leasing at Rockwell

Powering our success that caters different types of people and spectacular amenities are only the beginning. Also driving up the rental returns of Rockwell are two more Rockwell innovations – Leasing Office to make renting less stressful, and a highly recommended team of accredited designers and contractors to help make a unit more attractive to potential tenants.

Rockwell's Leasing Team is highly accessible and available to attend to unit owners' and prospective tenants' needs, as each residential building maintains its own Leasing Office.

Leasing office makes more convenient at Number One Rockwell.

The Leasing Office also offers "post-lease services". These services include purchasing of items needed by the tenant after the lease is closed and coordination with the building's Property Management Office for various unit concerns. This is particularly valuable to unit owners based abroad, especially for those who do not have representations in Manila to look after their property.

They also make it convenient for potential unit owners and tenants to find their perfect unit. "Viewing of units may be done even without prior notice as the unit keys are still on. They also have direct contact with our unit owner which results to faster negotiation and closing," said Pagulayan.

Interested unit owners and tenants can reach the Number One Rockwell Office by calling 791-0885.

SMALL GOES BIG LEAGUE HERE.

Center of Rockwell Center Development

After even small starts, they can expand the plans to be bigger than big league. Courtesy is the common belief that made unit owners appreciate the value of their units. Rockwell's ready-to-go spaces.

Let's not let it go to waste, and let's show Rockwell's prime price at $75,000 (plus in the year 2000) is not valued for as much as $150,000 (plus in the year 2000). Get ready for Cyber Monday

By Tere Tang
Lifestyle Editor

Of all the most anticipated events after Thanksgiving is the US Black Friday—a consumer's dream come true when stores all over America slash prices on merchandise in an effort to generate holiday sales.

Philippines equally views, resulting in companies, usually long opens as early as 4 a.m. and through during and following it in a big bookend holiday.

Employees who work to ensure prepare for the event the way football players do for the Superbowl—as they are also in danger of being tackled by sales customers.

While we still see cyber-stores about the Black Friday sales, many are the ones, thanks to the big internet of online shopping, we can also be participants of Black Friday and Cyber Monday, without the danger of being trampled in crowds.

Black Thursday your favorite online does the reduced prices, sales as much as over 50 per cent less than the retail price. Every online store has a little something for its customers during the consumer holiday even small retailers which cannot offer huge discounts like its e-commerce giant during this period.

It's a great time to shop for gifts, get good deals on items you've been eyeing and indulge in a little online shopping.

Online stores started advertising last week about their Black Friday offerings, while others have kept silent about which items go on sale, heightening the anticipation and increasing the traffic as well.

Now the annually discount shops Apple announced a one-day sale, though its selection are mostly limited to accessories and older versions of their products—iPads, an e-book deal.

Expect the sales to get even better on Cyber Monday (Thursday midnight and onwards as per time zone), an offshoot of the Black Friday hype being exclusively to weekends and early days.

Wrap It up this Friday

With the Black Friday shopping season in full swing, it's time to start wrapping up your purchases. Here are some tips to help you get the most out of your shopping experience.

1. Plan your purchases. Make a list of the items you want to buy and check the prices online before you go to the store. This will help you avoid impulse buying and ensure you get the best deals.

2. Use cash or a credit card. Using cash or a credit card can help you avoid overspending and ensure you get the best deals.

3. Check the return policy. Make sure you know the return policy of the store you are shopping at. This will help you avoid buying items that you cannot return.

4. Shop early. The best deals are often the first ones to go. So, if you want the best deals, shop early.

5. Use a shopping cart. A shopping cart can help you keep track of your purchases and ensure you get the best deals.

6. Check the shipping and handling fees. Make sure you know the shipping and handling fees of the store you are shopping at. This will help you avoid buying items that you cannot return.

No Captain Jack! Meron Salomon visits the Suplex store at 380 City Place where everyone he visits has pointers in Suplex. With his decidedly spunky style, the senior Computer Science student goes for jolts and shots, and he's discovered the wide assortment in the store.

"Surplus items are of good quality and affordable," says Hlavin. And they make him a magnet on and off the court.

Although she's better known as a television host and model, Yaa Villar is a stylist, a host. And she's convinced that Surplus is a feature film for those who love to experiment with the way they dress.

There are a lot of good finds at Surplus," says Yau. "It has a lot of affordable items of good quality that I can easily use and match." Call it a gut thing, but Yau's is always featured every time she shops at Surplus.

Make this your new playground

Cinemas with butlers, party suites, Republish your Super guide in Resorts World Manila

By Peter Parker and Tala Yang

WHILE AT SUPER, we're not big casino players. Our concept of taking risks is limited to building celebration who might get awayed, taking ourselves in gobs pip for fun and sometimes crazy adventures we think you might like, and taking on so many assignments until we're not sure we can meet all our deadlines.

In where Resorts World Manila opened, we weren't sure it was the place for us. It's a place for casino and high rollers, that's for sure, not a bunch of excited who's idea of a fun night out involves reading slot machines. But we were wrong.

We changed our minds a few weeks ago when we spent a day exploring the place. From our chair, Resorts World Manila might just be our new playground—and we think it can be yours too. Here's why:

Newport Ultra Cinema

We know cinema well. That's why we're particularly very aware that this cinema. We know which cinema serves the best butlers on popcorn, has good popcorn and the comfort seats, or sticky floors, or which cinema's moviehouse actually work and which ones are lame.

That's how we know where we need to watch the most Harry Potter movies—at the Newport Ultra Cinema.

We want our crazy comfortable. They are fully reclining, the leg rests are extendable and there's enough legroom for transactions. Tall people (or moments) aren't the only ones who will love Newport Ultra Cinema. It's perfect for couples going in a movie date, too. Shows are sold out by noon and every pair of seats includes a complimentary, giving you privacy. But we love the pairs for more than just the privacy they offer. They also provide a perfect viewing experience who can't stop looking at each other.

The Newport Ultra Cinema ticket includes a limited edition and popcorn delivered by our staff. And from the day you leave your seats, there's a special gift home to you. You'll be able to purchase food from nearby restaurants like Starbucks and McDonald's.

Newport Cinema 2 and 4 and the Newport 3D Digital Cinema may not have better service, but we think they're pretty good, too. Each theater gives you an undisturbed view because of its modern seating...it won't matter if the person in front of you is tall.

The seats are comfy, the legroom spacious and you get to see Dolby Digital games in the 3D Cinema. Movie tickets for Newport Cinema 2 and 4 cost P2,000, while tickets for the 3D Digital Cinema cost P3,000.

Newport Cinema is located at the fourth floor of Newport Mall, Resorts World Manila. Call 800-8811 or 02-817-4200-0212.

born on it, otherwise the show... and... would lose a measure of credibility, and nobody wants that to happen.

Another significant development last Sunday was the emergence of a few "outsiders" in the list of competing acts to highlight and impress viewers. On the other hand, some finalists who showed true talent and hard work with viewers and judges due to their choice of song rather than their backing talent.

So, we trust that they will work harder on perfecting the songs that best suit their talent and themselves their personalities. With only 12 contestants left, there's no room for mistakes. Immediate and strict elimination, only for forward judgment and detailed preparation, so that the best ones will consistently hold on to their advantages to viewers' admiration.

No further news another thing there is the rule. Quite a number of its remaining finalists are simply too young, true and will continue to come from their own to start careers. They may have the impressive singing talent, but they're too immature at only 15 years old or so to project themselves as complete entertainers.

YULETIDE STORY FOR YOUNG READERS

The 25 Days of 'Paskong Pilipino'

By Hector G. Torre

WHEN I heard the Yuletide carol, "The 12 Days of Christmas," for the first time, the instantly fell in love with it. The would ring in all the days, driving her kid brother, Pao, crazy.

"Sing it, sing it," he would shout, covering his ears and running away from her. "Why do you like that song so much?"

"Because it's about the Christmas season, which we're celebrating now," Colleen pointed. "I make me happy and excited—I can't wait for Christmas Eve to come, so we can open our presents!"

"But, it doesn't make sense at all," Pao griped. "It parades in a pair of, French horn, ranch dress, ruffled blouse, heels &—"

"That's because the song was written about Christmas in the United States," Colleen patiently explained. "They have those things down, so that's what they sing about."

"But this is the Philippines, not the States," Pao grumbled. "Our Christmas is not like that" at all! If you want to sing about the Christmas season, sing about the things we have and experience!"

Younger brother

Colleen looked at her younger brother and felt alone, alone. She could be really helpful, singing! But, more in a while, he made sense—a lot of sense.

On one morning, she thought to herself: This is Manila, in the Philippines, and what we celebrate each December is a Filipino Christmas—Paskong Pilipino!

Colleen thought, "Paskong Pilipino! We don't have parades, Santa Claus, reindeer, sleigh bells, snow—"

What are these musicals are—all, so many other wonderful things, remembered in their own, different ways! Maybe there's what we should all sing about!

"That's right!" she exclaimed, as though he could read her mind—sometimes, he could be really smart! But, may I point out another thing, please?"

Colleen or Pao's been just celebrated only when December comes.

"—O, let us! We love Christmas so much that we can't hear any music played on the radio, church when the 'hot' months come—starting May. It's 'No, no, that's not our song!'"

Colleen vigorously nodded. "I got your point about our celebrating Christmas much longer than they do in the States or Europe, but these schools teach us singing things to us?"

"Well, maybe, from the original—12 days of Christmas, we can increase it to—the 25 days of a Filipino Christmas!"

"Excellent," murmured Pao, nodding in awe. "On the 25 days of a Paskong Pilipino is it?"

Colleen laughed, to support that they finally agreed on something. "So, we write the song from now!"

"OK—but, more important than that, we should already do the 25 things we decide on that December as a Paskong Pilipino!"

"I agree, I agree. OK—just start!"

True love

"Well, on the first day of our Paskong Pilipino, my true love and I—"

Colleen put her a little lower! "I'll tell him!"

"No, darling, that's just the lyrics to the original song!"

"Pao! About the original, we're doing something entirely new here. It's not Christmas we're singing about, right?"

"Yes, OK, thanks for reminding me!"

"So, what will you do on the first day of our Paskong Pilipino?"

"I'll celebrate our Christmas!"

"Could it be the second day?"

"I'll bring a piece outside our window!"

"Why, that's right! This is our first day on the third day?"

"I'll join the hotel-making moment in our neighborhood!"

"Wonderful! And, on the fourth day?"

"I'll release for our Christmas presents in silence—I'm playing the role of the Blessed Virgin Mary—"

Colleen thought, "Yes, where characters are not playing!"

"Teacher cut me to the point in the middle. They laughed to—"

"OK, back to work! What will you do on the fifth day?"

"Haha—I'll take out our old Christmas decorations and make the whole house look really cheerful and happy!"

"That—and, on the sixth day?"

"Yes, yes, why am I the only one doing all the thinking and planning? Yes, then, what would you do?"

"I'll go to my room and ask him for my Christmas gift!"

"Yes, the sixth day of Christmas is our last day for Christmas—"

"No, that's much too long for me to wait. I'll ask him for my gift in advance!"

"No, Pao, you just have to wait."

"OK, it's my birthday on Dec. 10, so I'll wait for it—"

Colleen thought, "Yes, but the little children there will be happy!"

"That's right!" Pao grinned. "That's the best of the Blessed Virgin Mary and our whole family make it a point to join the big presentation around Christmas!"

"That's right!" Pao grinned. "That's the best of the Blessed Virgin Mary and our whole family make it a point to join the big presentation around Christmas!"

The Rustan's Children's Christmas Registry

Christmas wouldn't be the same without celebrating it with kids, that's why the Rustan's Christmas Registry was created. It is a gift registry open to children of all ages. It was formally launched last November 5, 2010, and will run until January 7, 2010 and the registry is available in these Rustan's department stores:

- Rustan's Makati, 2nd floor
- Rustan's Shangri-La Plaza, 2nd floor
- Rustan's Alabang Town Center, 1st floor
- Rustan's Gateway, 3rd floor
- Rustan's Cebu

The Rustan's Christmas Registry is a venue where kids can visit Santa and tell him the gifts they would like to receive. They are then assisted by Santa's Little Helpers around the store to choose gifts and place them in the registry. Items can be chosen from anywhere in the store. These selections are then logged electronically to our system and emailed to people they would like to send their "Wish list" to. These can be their grandparents, god parents, aunts, uncles, friends, and relatives. Their selections/wishes are also printed and stored in their stockings with the child's name, which are kept at the Christmas tree around the children's area.

Those who would like to buy the gifts for the children that registered are welcome to come into the store, approach Santa's Little Helpers to request for the list of the child they are buying for. Santa's Little Helpers can then show them their list of selections that have not yet been purchased, and can help them with their selection, purchase, and gift-wrapping (free gift-wrapping for items above P300).
